

RAW™

Interface®

The awe of Raw stops you dead in your tracks. This is a pattern of visual intrigue inspired by organic deconstruction and evolution that can strip away layers to an unexpected inner beauty. It reminds that aging and wear can yield an aesthetic treat - the nuances of patina and character of distressing. There's a plush quality to this design, too, that translates into irresistible luxury. And this beauty is not just skin-deep - the real beauty of Raw is that it's made from 100% non-virgin yarn.

We've made big strides toward Mission Zero® by returning more waste yarns to the supply chain, bringing us closer to zero footprint by the year 2020. Working in partnership with one of our global yarn suppliers, Interface is using increasing amounts of 100% non-virgin yarn in many of our products. By combining non-virgin materials like reclaimed carpet fiber with salvaged fishing nets we achieve a minimum of 25% post-consumer yarn content.

Raw's combination of non-virgin fiber and our GlasBac®RE backing system results in a Convert™ product with a minimum of 40% post-consumer recycled content, and a minimum total recycled content of 80%.
